

Trustees Seek to Collect Balance of Agent Pledge

$1,000 of $2,000 Total Remains Unpaid, Trustees Report

IS ASKED FOR NOW

Cobb, Monts and Holt Want to Close Books Next Week

Collection of approximately $1,000 in unpaid pledges from 100 individuals in the city and county who underwrote the county agents' work in 1929 and 1930, will be sought this coming week.

A total of $1,960 was subscribed, of which about half has been paid. The agents, Lynn Smith and Miss Mary Buechley in 1929, and Mr. Smith and Miss Martha Jane Buecher in 1930, were paid by bank loans secured by the individual pledges.

Trustees Have Record Responsibility for the collections was placed in a trusteeship, comprising W. A. Cobb, A. C. Monts and F. P. Holt, and these men have asked all pledgees to make payment this coming week.

In some cases there has been a misunderstanding as to payment, the trustees report. Many of the pledges were obtained from the same people in both 1929 and 1930, and part of the 1929 fund covered two months of the agents' salaries in 1929.

Private citizens underwrote all of the county share of the agents' salaries in both 1929 and 1930. The trustees have complete records of payments, and wish to close their books as quickly as possible.

Agents' Work Dropped After the agents' work had been carried for two years without assistance from the county treasury, the State Extension Service refused to continue in 1931 the arrangements by which private citizens bore half the salaries, and the state and federal governments the other half.

Therefore, the county agents' offices were abolished in November, 1930; and Hempstead today is probably the largest and richest county in the state, to be without this branch of the county government.

Nine Injured When Truck Overtakes

Five Hurt Seriously as Machine Skids in Loose Gravel Near England

ENGLAND.—Nine persons were injured, five of them seriously, Friday when the truck on which they were riding overturned about 10 miles north of here. Eight of the injured were members of the same family and the ninth was the driver of the truck.

Woody Webb suffered severe cuts and internal injuries. His wife suffered a bad cut on the forehead, lacerations on the face and internal injuries. Vurdin Webb, aged three, suffered two breaks of the right arm. The arm of another son, aged four, was almost severed.

Will Veeson, driver of the truck, sustained a broken right arm and bad cuts. Four other children of the Webb family were cut and bruised but none injured seriously.

The family was moving from Atkins to a farm near England. When the truck struck loose gravel on the highway the driver applied the brakes suddenly and because of the top-heavy load the truck skidded and overturned into a ditch. Passing motorists brought the injured here, where they were given attention by Dr. Rector.

Killing Declared Wanton Murder

Prisoner Alleged to Have Fired Into Party Leaving Lodge Hall

TEXARKANA.—Newell Combs, aged 21, was shot and wounded at 10:30 Friday night as he left a lodge meeting at Ravenna, 30 miles south of here, with several other members. He died 15 minutes later. Two hours later Jodies Brown, aged 26, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff H. H. Oliver and brought to the county jail here, charged with the slaying. A preliminary hearing will be held in Municipal Court Saturday.

Brown is said to have appeared at the lodge hall with a shotgun and an automatic pistol and threatened an incoherent manner to shoot up the place. It is said that for an unexplained reason he held a grudge against the lodge.

Some of the members took the shotgun from Brown, but he drew the pistol, firing into another party just coming out of the hall. Combs was shot through the body near the heart. Brown disappeared while members of the lodge telephoned the sheriff's office.

Deputy Oliver, soon after reaching Ravenna, found and arrested Brown, who in jail said that he had no recollection of the shooting. Witnesses said that Brown was drunk at the time of the shooting and Deputy Oliver said that he was in a maudlin condition when arrested.

First Lady and Senators' Wives Plan Red Cross Aid

The First Lady of the Land was the guest of honor, wives of United States Senators were the hostesses, and the formulation of plans to aid relief projects of the American Red Cross was the purpose of the luncheon pictured above in Washington. Here you see Mrs. Hiram Bingham, wife of the senator from Connecticut, serving Mrs. Hoover in a Red Cross uniform, Mrs. George Moses of New Hampshire. President Hoover has issued an appeal for the contribution of $10,000,000 to the Red Cross for use in drought-stricken areas of the country.

Hendrix Magazine Opposes New Name

College Profile Says Selections of Trinity Against Wishes of Students

CONWAY.—The College Profile, student weekly of Hendrix Henderson College, appearing Friday, voiced opposition to the name recently chosen for the merged Methodist schools. Practically half of the paper's space was given to comment on the name "Trinity." The edition was the first since the name was adopted.

The Profile said, "the victory of unpopular 'Trinity' in board meetings made little impression on students, alumni and citizens."

In a two-column editorial, entitled, "An Empty Victory," Jim Montgomerie, editor, said: "The entire state was shocked by the decision of the board to change the name in the face of widespread opposition to the unpopular name of 'Trinity.' The board's verdict left the heartfelt pleas of the Hendrix student body unanswered, it left the warnings of many imploring alumni unheeded, it absolutely ignored the will of thousands of church members and friends of the institution and we are afraid that our college has lost something more than a good name. A greater loss than that of a title alone has been suffered—the loss of good will."

Spain Honors Two American Fliers

PARIS.—(U.P.)—Two Americans, Paul Rockwell, of Atlanta, Ga., and Paris, and Lansing C. Holden, architect, of New York, are among the first recipients of a new medal created by the Spanish government, the Medal of Moroccan Peace, to reward unusual service to Spain during the war in the Rif.

Rockwell and Holden, captains in the Moroccan air service in the French zone, flew to a Spanish aerodrome near Tetouan in 1925 and took part in several raids.

Alleged Assertion Assailed By Fess

Says Democrats Trying to Throw Smoke Screen Around Raskob

WASHINGTON.—(U.P.)—Chairman Fess of the Republican National Committee answered Saturday an assertion that Joust Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Executive committee was attacking John J. Raskob, because he was "The leading Catholic layman."

"This is an infamous untruth," Fess said, "and an attempt to inject religious issues for the purpose of throwing a smoke screen around Raskob by Democratic leaders such as Governor Moody of Texas and Josephus Daniels of North Carolina."

Arkansas in Need of Immediate Help Says Capt Lucey.

The Situation Is Declared Worse in State Than in All District

RECOMMENDS LOAN

Believes Red Cross Can Care For Remaining Needy States

WASHINGTON.—(U.P.)—Captain J. P. Lucey, southwestern representative of the president's emergency employment committee, reported to Chairman Wood that something must be done to carry Arkansas farmers through the next few months.

He also said the Mexican government was helping relieve the southwestern situation by aiding unemployed Mexicans to return to their homes.

Mexican consuls have been instructed to pay the transportation of needy Mexicans from the border to their homes. Railroads which employed labor from below the international line were said by Lucey to be sending them back.

Returning from a survey of his district, Captain Lucey said distress is worst in Arkansas.

The Red Cross was reported functioning efficiently throughout the drought sections of the six states he represents and are supplying food to all who need it. In all states except Arkansas, he believed the situation can be cared for without federal aid.

The situation can be relieved to some extent in Arkansas by the use of Federal highway funds to furnish employment. Lucey held, but it will be several weeks before much can be done along this line.

Governor Parnell of Arkansas has asked a federal loan of $5,000,000, the loan to run 20 years and Lucey said he had recommended that it be made.

The situation in Texas, he said, is better. About 30 counties were hit seriously enough by the drought to require help and the Red Cross is handling these.

The depression in the oil fields has created a bad employment situation, he said. El Dorado, Ark., Houston, Texas, Oklahoma City, Okla., Shreveport, La., are full of oil workers out of work. In Houston alone he estimated there are 5000 idle oil workers.

Simultaneously with Lucey's report Wallace Townsend, Republican national committeeman from Arkansas outlined to President Hoover the condition of drought sufferers in that state.

He declined to comment after his conference.

HOT SPRINGS.—(U.P.)—A gas explosion Saturday resulted in the burning to death of two negro children and the severe burning of their widowed mother, members of a family by the name of Boule.

The five room brick bungalow was wrecked by the blast and fire which followed.

The two children were in the bed room when a large gas stove exploded from a leak.

Site of Old Mission Found in Nebraska

FULLERTON, Neb.—(U.P.)—Site of the old Allis Presbyterian mission, which ministered to the spiritual needs of the Pawnee Indians in the early days, has been found.

Research by A. M. Brookings, of the Hastings, Neb., museum, and University of Nebraska investigators has ended with the decision that the mission was located three miles north and six miles east of here.

Charred ruins of buildings and trinkets led to discovery of the old mission site. It was erected in 1834.

Legislative Sidelights

By HENRY N. DORRIS Associated Press Staff Writer

LITTLE ROCK.—(U.P.)—Legislative reaction to the collapse of more than 100 banks and some insurance companies last fall, through action by the house to provide an investigation, climaxed the first week's work of the forty-eighth General Assembly during which many measures of importance started their courses.

Closely allied with the house resolution were bills introduced in the senate to more effectively define and govern banking and insurance operations. Other measures, designed to relieve immediate taxation payments because of the bank collapse and the 1930 drought, also made their appearance in both houses.

The resolution to provide a joint legislative committee to conduct the banking and insurance investigation, came so suddenly as to startle even the membership. Its author was Clark of Grant. The house adopted it without debate and by unanimous vote.

The resolution specifically named the American Exchange Trust Company, and the Home Life and Home Fire Insurance Companies of Little Rock, of which A. B. Banks was president, as objects of the investigation to determine causes of the collapse.

Closing of the American Exchange November 17, was followed within a few weeks by the closing or suspension of more than 100 banks, and receivership for the Home Fire and Home Accident Companies. Soon after the house adopted the Clark resolution, State Insurance Commissioner William E. Floyd certified as insolvent the Home Life Insurance Company. The attorney general then asked for a receivership for the Home Life.

The senate has yet to act upon the Clark resolution. In event of favorable senate action, the investigating committee would be appointed immediately, as terms of the resolution provide for a speedy inquiry so that the present legislature may be guided by the findings in enacting legislation seeking to prevent a recurrence "of the present dilemma."

Senator Quarles was author of a measure introduced, to require banks to guarantee deposits through surety bonds in three separate bonding companies. Under his measure, the surety concerns would be required to pay depositors of closed institutions in full within 20 days. Failing in such, the bill would permit suits to collect and provide a 13 per cent penalty, together with attorney's fees and costs.

Senator Nelson introduced bills to provide for realignment of senatorial districts; to change expiring time from January 10 to April 10; and another to extend improvement district taxes due in 1930 and 1931 to January 10, 1932. The latter measures were designed to afford relief this year to farmers who suffered losses by the drought.

Representative Levine of Jefferson, was author of a bill to suspend the provision of the banking law requiring 100 per cent assessment to stockholders of banks organized during 1930, 1931 and 1932. Effect of the bill, he said, would be to permit reopening of many closed banks through making the way easier for depositors to become stockholders.

Both houses have had their first skirmishes between administration and insurgent forces, but lack of clear-cut issues has left the result partly in doubt.

The senate's first fight came about over appointment by Governor Parnell of R. E. Spence to succeed his father, W. E. Spence, as senator from the first district. The elder Spence resigned.

Senator Wilson contended the governor was without power under the constitution to appoint a senator, asserting an election should be called. The senate deliberated the question in executive session, finally seating Spence, but declining to pass upon whether the governor had the right to make the appointment.

Two joint sessions were held, before one of which Governor Parnell delivered his legislative message, proposing raising of property or income tax rates, and stressing his plan for a complete reorganization of the state government. Bills seeking the reorganization are being planned, and probably will reach the assembly within two or three weeks.

A senate joint resolution was introduced providing for submission of a constitutional amendment to permit cities and towns of over 2,000 inhabitants voting a 10-mill property tax in addition to other taxes levied. This amendment was sponsored by the Arkansas Association of Mayors.

Representative Fleming introduced a bill providing for a bond issue of $15,000,000 to be loaned farmers through a state board composed of the five constitutional officers. The loans would be made on growing crops, at the rate of $2 an acre for hay and some other crops up to $7 an acre on cotton. The loans would be repaid by farmers after the crops are gathered.

Both houses will hear announcements of committee appointments when they meet at 2 p. m. Monday.

Lieut. Gov. Lawrence E. Wilson, president of the senate and Speaker of the House Irving C. Neale, requested adjournment of both branches Thursday afternoon to permit completion of committee selections, and to effect smoothly working permanent organizations.

Dan Dewberry to Be Returned Sun.

Former Real Estate Man to Face Indictments For Forgery

TEXARKANA.—Dan Dewberry, 38, wanted here on forgery charges growing out of his real estate operations several years ago, will arrive Sunday from California in custody of Sheriff Harris of Miller county.

Dewberry was released to Sheriff Harris Thursday afternoon by Los Angeles officers following court hearings, according to a telegram received by H. H. Oliver, chief deputy sheriff here. Harris and Dewberry left Los Angeles, Thursday night.

The former realtor is under four indictments charging forgery and uttering and is expected to make bond shortly after arriving here.

He had been sought since the summer of 1927, when the true bills were returned against him in Miller county circuit court, and was arrested in the coast city two weeks ago on information furnished officers there by Sheriff Harris.

Dewberry fought return to Texas, necessitating institution of extradition proceedings.

Farmer Scorns Auto and Sticks to Oxen

HOPKINTON, N. H.—(U.P.)—George E. Patch, farmer, would "rather have a one-legged ox than a dozen automobiles."

Proof of this assertion might be found at Patch's farm where 13 yoke of oxen are employed to do various work. In the winter, Patch runs out three or four yoke to neighbors and keeps the others engaged in hauling cord wood from the woods.

Man Held Thought to Be Ex-Convict From Missouri Penitentiary

FORT SMITH.—(U.P.)—Sebastian county officers left Saturday for Huntington, Arkansas to search for a woman believed to know Earl Quinn, a former convict and sought as the slayer of Jessie and Zeila Griffith, sisters and oral weeks ago, sev-bleWAFesAgO teachers near Tonkawa, Okla., several weeks ago.

The officers are making this trip with the view of trying to identify a man in custody as Quinn.

Meanwhile the man arrested here and giving the name of Al Starnes is being held pending the arrival of Quinn's fingerprints from the Missouri State penitentiary.

Police say that the telegraphic description of Quinn tallies in every respect to the prisoner here.

Mimeographing Contract Is Let

Most Lawmakers Return Home Until Work Reopens Monday

LITTLE ROCK.—(U.P.)—A committee from the house and senate Friday awarded a contract for all mimeographing for the general assembly while the remainder of the members sought rest.

The mimeographing contract was awarded to Willard Funk of Little Rock, on his bid of $3900 to include all mimeographing "needed by both houses."

Contract is to be drawn up by Attorney General Hal L. Norwood, and its final approval by the legislative committee "fingered" by Funk obtaining a surety bond for $7500, or the amount of the contract as specified in the resolution which provoked a strenuous fight in the house Thursday morning.

There were 17 bids offered, the highest being for $17,000, and the next lowest of Funk's was for $4000.

The resolution providing for a joint house and senate mimeographing contract was offered by Senator Creed Caldwell, but when it reached the house, insurgents under Representative Cannon of Hempstead county, led a fight which resulted in two amendments being adopted.

One of the amendments, by Representative Wade Kitchens of Columbia county, provided that the lowest bid offered be accepted. Representative Cannon amended it to provide that the successful contractor make surety bond for twice the amount of the bid.

While the mimeographing contract was being let, Lieutenant Governor Lawrence Wilson and Speaker Irving C. Neale were busy completing assignments of members to committees. The work, they said, "probably will not be finished before Saturday but they hoped to announce the committee assignments Saturday."

Most legislators returned to their home to spend the time until they return to again "take up legislative work at 2 p. m. Monday."

Local Negro Held for Murder in 1913

Records Reveal Man in Kansas City Wanted For Killing

WASHINGTON, Ark.—John Arnold, negro, is being held in the Hempstead county jail here for a murder which occurred 17 years ago, so long ago, in fact, that even veteran peace officers had forgotten the killing.

The sheriff's office recently received a letter from police in Kansas City, Kansas, asking if Hempstead county wanted Arnold on a murder charge.

Although Sheriff Wilson had no recollection of any such case, he launched an investigation and discovered through court records that Arnold had been indicted in 1913 for the murder of Wash Robinson, negro, at Hope.

Arnold disappeared from Hope before he could be arrested on the indictment, it was learned.

He waived extradition following his arrest a few days ago in Kansas City and was returned to Washington by Deputy Sheriff Clarence Baker.

Two Negroes Accused of Defrauding Red Cross

NASHVILLE.—Simon Deloney and Gus Clark, negroes, who live near Mineral Springs, were arrested Friday on a charge of defrauding the Red Cross. The negroes received help from the Red Cross. A check on the provisions to a black thicket they have been given last 60 days or longer. They will be given a hearing before Justice Tyndall Saturday.

Two Valuable Flyers

APPARENTLY Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieutenant William MacLaren have been lost at sea in their attempt to fly the Atlantic; and in paying a final tribute to two daring aviators it is fitting to point out that they were no mere stunt flyers, seeking newspaper headlines and a new sensation.
They were members of the profession of aviation, honestly trying to do something to advance the cause of the airplane.
A good many flyers have been lost at sea, but by no means all of them belong in this classification. Most, indeed, have been stunt flyers, pure and simple, throwing their lives away in a chance for adventure. But Mrs. Hart and Lieutenant MacLaren were of a different kind.

Negotiations for a regular, commercial trans-Atlantic line have been in progress for some months—so much so that actual operations on such a line are expected in the comparatively near future. The route was to lead from some port on the American mainland to Bermuda, thence to the Azores and from there to the European mainland.

This route, it was believed, would eliminate many of the hazards ordinarily met by trans-Atlantic flyers. Each leg of the flight would be shorter, so that a lesser amount of gasoline would be needed in the fuel tanks. The bad weather of the northern "great circle" route would be avoided. The strain on the pilots would not be so great.

However, it was necessary that the route be tested; and Mrs. Hart and Lieutenant MacLaren set out to test it. That was why they made their flight in mid-winter; a commercial air line would have to fly in all weathers. That was why they carried a sizable pay load. That was why they took off at Bermuda when they knew that stormy weather lay ahead of them.

Now it is highly probable that they have lost their lives; and it is nothing less than their due to say they deserve a better tribute than some of the other flyers who died in mid-ocean. They were trying to make useful, commercial trans-Atlantic flying a reality. It is by efforts like theirs that aviation eventually will come into its own.

Growth of American Churches

THERE is not a shred of external evidence that the American people are tending to discard the church. America is getting fewer and larger, probably fewer and better churches, says H. Paul Douglas, director, Institute of Social and Religious Research in the January "Current History." He goes on to say:

"The total body of evidence shows that organized religion is growing considerably more rapidly than is population, and that, considered in its whole length and breadth the church as an enterprise is considerably more than holding its own.
Of its lapse or ultimate disappearance one finds no evidence.

"While small and experimental sects have appeared during recent decades to swell the total list, the really notable trend is in the direction of the combination of denominations into few and stronger units. No fewer than 17 denominations actually completed such mergers between 1916 and 1926.
Most of these took place within the same denominational families, but occasionally between bodies of diverse origins.

"The last two decades likewise have seen the growth of an extraordinary, extensive and varied, system of interchurch co-operation. Perhaps the best known is the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ. The rapidly increasing independent and federated churches represent the revolt of local communities against the evils of the denominational system and a growing capacity to forget sectarian differences."

Prohibition in The Courts

THIRSTY citizens looking for the return of the legalized sale of alcoholic liquor would do well not to rely heavily on the decision of a federal judge in New Jersey that the prohibition amendment is invalid.

On the surface, this is an epoch-making supreme court may not look at the question eye to eye with this jersey justice. A decade ago the status of the amendment was pretty thoroughly argued before the supreme court, and that body upheld it in every detail.

Whether or not any change in the prohibition law is coming is something that only the seventh son of a seventh son could say. However, if a change does come it will and should come by legislative action. There is very small likelihood that the courts will turn us from a dry nation into a wet one.—Paragould Daily Press.

A Notable Experiment

IT IS interesting to note that a parliamentary committee has urged the British government to abolish capital punishment for a five-year period as an experiment in penology.

The committee frankly favors the complete abolition of the death penalty; however, it suggests the five-year experiment as a measure that may win support from more conservative statesmen, and there is a good possibility that the British Parliament will adopt the scheme.

Here would be an excellent chance to get some irrefutable data on the effects of capital punishment. For a country like England, which has always punished its murderers with the gallows, to do away with hanging for five years would provide an extremely valuable commentary on the theory that only the threat of death will hold a potential murderer in check.

Wouldn't It Be Interesting—?

---WERE TO BE ADJUSTED TO THE SLOWNESS OF THEIR DRIVERS' WITS?

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The question of whether this session of Congress is to become principally an incubator for an early special session of the 72d Congress with its almost evenly divided House and Senate now seems to lie largely with a comparatively small group of progressive Republicans and Democrats in the Senate.

This session has all the makings of a fearful jam, so high is the heap of controversial measures and matters for argument. Only a determined, ruthless effort by nearly all concerned can assure the passage of the supply and appropriation bills which is necessary if a special session is to be avoided. Escape from the special session would seem to require active co-operation of the group which is most willing to force one. Members of that group, at last accounts, included such progressive Republican senators as Borah of Idaho, Norris of Nebraska,
Blaine and La Follette of Wisconsin, Blaine of North Dakota and Brookhart of Iowa, with such Democrats as Wheeler and Walsh of Montana, Caraway of Arkansas,
Dill of Washington and McKellar of Tennessee.

Longworth Optimistic

Speaker Longworth has promised that the House will get through in time to make a special session unnecessary, even indicating that there will be a vote on the Norris Muscle Shoals bill and the Norris or Gifford lame-duck amendment.

But the situation is such that if the special session is to be avoided, virtually every man in the Senate will have to keep quiet about the things he is most anxious to talk about. It was easy enough to realize the special session possibilities
when Congress met in December, but half a dozen issues have lately become so prominent in such a large way that the chances have materially increased. The necessity of a great deal of compromising between the administration forces and the extra session group has increased in proportion.

Opossum Proves to Be Desperate Hen Thief

YORK, Pa.—(U.P.)—When signs and other warnings failed to halt raids on his hen house, Milton Strevig, former near here, planned a trap for the intruder. Warned by the trap of the presence of the visitor, Strevig armed himself with a shotgun and called on the raider to come out of the chicken coop. Receiving no answer, Strevig cautiously opened the door, expecting a desperate rush. Instead a large opossum scurried out. Strevig shot it.
Its hide measured 40 inches in length and 24 inches in width.

Robbed of First Pay

WORCESTER, Mass.—(U.P.)—Jobless for months, Frank Camwell finally found work. Enroute home with his first day's pay as a snow shoveller—$4.00—he was held up and robbed not only of that but also of an additional $1.50.

Proposed Cuban Law Cuts Wheat Imports

HAVANA.—(U.P.)—Wheat imports to Cuba would be cut drastically under a new law which would make it compulsory to use at least 10 per cent yuca flour in all commercial baking houses.
The yuca root, from which the popular American dessert, tapioca, is made, is grown extensively in Cuba and has many uses. It makes a satisfactory flour and has been used here for years. The new law, sponsored by Senator Alberto Barreras, passed the senate and house and will shortly be sent to President Machado for executive approval. It is expected that he will sign the measure.

for many years having come to Hope when it was just a small village.

For the past several years he has lived on the farm of Oscar Brint near Spring Hill.

Until about two years ago he was very active despite his advanced age and conducted his own business affairs. He was respected by both white and colored in every community where he had lived.

SOCIETY

By Sid Henry Telephone 321

The bird that to the evening sings Leaves music when her song is ended—
A sweetness left, which takes not wings.
But with each pulse of eve is blended,
Thus life involves a double light.
Our acts and words have many brothers;
The heart that makes its own delight
Makes also a delight for others.
One smile can glorify a day.
One word new hope impart;
The least disciple need not say
There are no alms to give away
If love be in the heart—Selected.

FOR GINGER'S SAKE

by ETHEL HUESTON
© 1930 THE BOBBY McFERRILL CO.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GINGER ELLA TOLLIVER was born in the little town of Red Thru, Iowa, and her father was a very wealthy man, but life in the little town of Red Thru, Iowa, was too slow for her. So she came to the big city of Chicago, and she was going to start a new life for herself.

To JENNY BROOKS, wife of old BENNY BROOKS, an ally in whom she could trust implicitly, she confided her intention of organizing a Junior Country Club. She asked Jenny to act as her agent in the purchase of the Mill Rush farm, a 10-acre tract with an old farm house, from JOPLIN WESTBURY. The rest of her plans were still in her head, unformulated.

"And," she told Jenny, "the sure and safe way to get the money is to bring him down in his price. About half of what he asks will be right."

To Jenny, who, with her husband, was to be champion, the venture promised a great many dollars saved, as a summer on the farm would mean a trimming of living expenses. The house on Mill Rush held interesting possibilities for an investment as fertile as "Ginger's". On the other hand, it was doing its present owner no good, and he was anxious to sell. Westbury finally got down to $2000, whereupon Jenny said she would have to ask Ginger's advice.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

BUT Joplin Westbury did not wait for Jenny to see Ginger Ella. He knew Ginger from of old and was well aware that she was not above turning a neat financial trick herself when she had a good chance. And he had no intention of letting this sale slip through his fingers.

Before Jenny was down the stairs he had Ginger on the telephone.

"Say, little bondholder," he began cheerfully for he and Ginger were great friends. "I guess you're not so over-nourished on bank-rolls but what you'll turn an honest dollar if you see your way clear, eh?"

"I hope to tell you," declared Ginger humbly.

"Well, now, you know that school teacher that used to live with you at the parsonage—who married that blind man—Yeh, Brooks, Mrs. Brooks. Well, she wants to buy a little piece of land from me, and she's going to ask your advice about it."

"Now, you know me, Ginger, I make a sale when I can. You give her the right advice, and the day she signs up for it, I'll send you my check for $100. That's what I think of your opinion. Guess that's a fair enough proposition."

"It certainly is," agreed Ginger. "And I think I can advise her to your satisfaction if the price is right."

"Well, I'm going to make it right. Now, I'm asking $2000, but I won't stick at $1800. Listen, Ginger, just between us, I'd let it go for $1500, $250 down and 25 a month. Now, tell you what I'll do. Anything we get out of her over $1500, I'll give you 10 per cent, and in addition to your hundred. The land's good enough, but I can't rightly use it myself, and the farmers don't seem to fancy it."

GINGER laughed delightedly. "That's just corking," she said. "I'll see what I can do. You're a great old sport, Joppy, and I think we can do business."

Her confidence was not ill-advised. They did do business, and

"Say, little bondholder," Joplin said, "I guess you'll still turn an honest dollar if you see your way clear, eh?"

"I hope to tell you," declared Ginger within 24 hours Den and Jenny Brooks had bought Mill Rush for $1500, paying $250 down. And Ginger had a check for $100, which she generously divided with Jenny, to that woman's boundless delight.

The news that Ben and Jenny Brooks had taken over the Mill Rush place to operate as a sort of summer home for themselves and a general club for the youth of Red Thru created a sensation in the community but on the whole met with a surprisingly favorable reaction.

Ben and Jenny were well liked, and had the respect and the good will of every one in town. The hope that they would do well and make money out of the enterprise upon which they had so boldly embarked was unanimous. That Ginger should sweep into immediate dominance of all arrangements caused no surprise at all, for she had always been known as Jenny's general boss, taking entire credit even for the marriage of the strangely assorted pair, and considering them in a unique way to be her personal protégés.

THE more ardent and active members of the regular Country Club frankly admitted that they would be glad to be rid of what they impatiently called "those youngsters." It is not easy for middle-aged parents to indulge in foolish frivolity before the amazed and disapproving eyes of growing-up sons and daughters.

An even more practical objection to the tree use of the Country Club by the juniors was the fact that it was almost impossible to stock provisions enough to satisfy their never-ending thirsts and hungers for they seemed to be entirely lacking in the modern caloric-consciousness.

The consensus was, give them a club of their own by all means, and if we have to help support it, we will.

The more conservative members of the social set felt that the safest and sanest thing to be done for the children was to get them away from their elders in the social life. Certainly their pure young innocence was less likely to suffer early defilement if kept in complete segregation from the daring unconventionalism that had overtaken so many parents at middle age.

THE robust middle class was particularly pleased, reckoning that the hours of gay, exhausting bodily labor that confronted their children in the renovation of Mill Rush could not fail to contribute the red blood, sturdy muscles and becoming tan quite incompatible with the tea-drinking, incense-burning, cocktail-shaking amusements to which the upper classes had become addicted.

But among them all not one was more genuinely delighted than Phil himself, who had observed the signs of mental depression in her pretty stepdaughter with increasing concern. In the beginning of their life together she had tried—as the rich are prone to do—to insure her contentment with lovely, costly gifts, with pretty clothes and with expensive toys.

Ultimately she thought it would be a good thing for Ginger to marry Eddy Jackson, in which case she planned for them a house and finely equipped laboratory for Eddy's agricultural experiments in the outer fringes of Doanville, where they would have the freedom and privacy to which every young couple is entitled, but where she and Mr. Tolliver, when he had retired from active participation in church affairs, could joyously superintend the development of the future "little Gln and Gingers," as Ginger herself flippantly referred to her hypothetical progeny of later date.

EDDY, Phil told herself, was a nice boy and he understood Ginger. Best of all he had a sense of humor, was, in fact, what Ginger called a real human being and had fallen in love with Ginger in her days of bare-skinned knees.

It frequently happened that Ginger was tied up with engagements with different college boys home for vacation, or with the friends who came with them, in which case she usually managed to work Eddy into the party as an escort for her friend, Patty Sears. That was really wherein lay Patty's greatest value—in taking Eddy off her hands and yet keeping him in the party.

For Eddy was a powerful ally, a valuable addition to any party. He was older than the others and he never lost his head.

Ginger's own emotions, as far as men were concerned, were in a state of safe but deadly somnolence. She was not at all sure that she believed in love; her personal opinion was that she probably did not. Love, she found, was apt to be either rough or messy, and neither manifestation appealed to her.

Also, as she cheerfully confided to Phil, "if occasionally one does let go for a minute and lapse into complete eroticism—see Freud—one is so flushed and perspire the rest of the day it simply isn't worth it." Taken all together, she was against love. "Something to do," she said, "that's all people need."

This Baby Swallowed a Pin

When seven-month-old Bonnie Jean Black of Chicago swallowed a safety pin, her life was despaired of. However, she was taken to Presbyterian hospital, where physicians located the pin by using a biplane fluoroscope, an X-ray device used for the first time by the medical profession. Then, by using a bronchoscope, the pin was removed. This shows Dr. Edwin McGinnis performing the operation which saved Baby Jean's life.

Cat Dives Into Sea to Catch Fish

'Tommy,' Owned by Light House Keeper Is Good Fisherman

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—(U.P.)—It's not strange for a bird to catch fish, or for a cat to catch birds, but it's a bit unusual for a cat to dive into the ocean to catch fish.

Such a cat has Captain Adolf H. Aronson, keeper of Pomham Light. The cat, called Tommy, acquired the fishing habit from Captain Aronson's children.

Perched motionless on a rock, Tommy awaits the approach of a fish, then dives, head first, into the sea, seizing prey with mouth and claws. Tommy invariably hides the fish under a lilac bush on the island until he has enough for a meal.

The cat doesn't like the salt water, for he rolls in to grass to dry himself, whereafter a rain storm he licks himself dry.

Twice Tommy got fish hooks caught in his mouth when he took a liking to bait attached to them as they lay unused on the ground. Each time, Captain Aronson removed the hooks without serious result.

THE YOUNGER GENERATION

HOOKS AND SLIDES

Love, Tennis, Etc.

NO less a personage than Louis B. Dailley, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, thinks that since George Lott, Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn have been recently married, and entered upon business careers, the association should encourage them to concentrate upon their careers and not tempt them to devote several months in 1931 to the playing of the game on international teams.

It begins to appear there is urgent need for some kind of "stay-single-and-bring-back-the-Davis-cup" movement. Johnny Doe, national singles champion of last year, also has turned to business pursuits, and is reported to have been smitten with the idea that the life of a family bread-winner isn't such a painful thought, after all.

It is not hard to remember that Helen Wills, queen supreme in the field of women's tennis, changed her name to Moody some time ago and expressed the thought that international tennis honors could go hang so long as there were eggs to be laid for Mr. Moody.

My goodness! What is tennis coming to, anyway?

Too Young to Marry?

JUST as soon as a young lady or young man reaches the stage of knowing the difference between lobbing and volleying, he or she at once gives up the game and goes a-mating.

Mr. Dailley says the nation's hopes for a return of the Davis cup may rest upon the youthful shoulders of four boys who are still a bit young to marry—at any rate too young without the consent of their parents. These four are Francis X. Shields, Clifford Sutter, Gregory Mangin and Sidney B. Wood, Jr. None of these boys is yet old enough to vote, but they may comprise the Davis cup team of 1931.

Shields reached the finals of the national singles tournament last year, losing to Johnny Doe. He is 19, but has been playing six years, graduating from shagging balls at Troges Neck, L. I.

Cliff Sutter, a Tulane University student, is only 19 but he is the south's ranking player, and during the six years in which he has appeared in competition he has won

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Billy's dad died fighting trying to win back part of his fortune lost through bad investments. . . . Sons and proteges of great fighters never have approached the fame of their fathers. . . . Young Bob Fitzsimmons was in the public eye for a time some years ago, but could not reach the top. . . . Jim Jeffries' protege, Al Morro, was knocked for a couple of loops recently. . . . Jack Dempsey fooled around with several heavyweights, among them Armand Emanuel, who looked promising for a while but none of them ever got anywhere.

the national intercollegiate crown the Longwood Bow title, the Eastern Grass Courts title, and has beaten such players as Tilden, McCur and Bell.

Mangin Coming Up

MANGIN is not 21, but he has moved up in national rankings from 26th in 1927 to a spot near the top. He is a student at Georgetown University and has won the eastern college crown. The Newark boy impressed British observers at Wimbledon with his aggressiveness and excellent backhand.

Wood, a New York strapping lad who stopped Ellsworth Vines at Seabright last year, won Vines, red-hot after victories over Shields and Hunter, was swinging along toward the honors. Wood was 19 last Nov. 1, but he has two seasons of play in the French and British championships and in 1928 he came within a point of losing a set from Cochet.

These four boys may make up the Davis cup team of 1931—barring the chances of matrimony or worse.
